

THROW BALL; DAUBERT GETS IT; HE CAN CATCH ALMOST ANYTHING

Let the Ball Be High, Low or Wide, Daubert's Thin Figure Darts After It and He Gets It; Thin Steak Caused Sallee To Leave the Cardinals, is the Report; Collins Is Not Playing Well.

By FRANK G. MENKE.

NEW YORK, July 25.—The sensational playing of Jake Daubert around the first bag in one of the several rousers for the great showing of the Dodgers this year, Jacob has risen to heights this season greater than ever before. He has been making stops and throws that have brought gasps of amazement from even the most blasé fans.

The other Dodgers infielders are none too accurate in their playing. But it makes no difference. They don't need to be with Jake on first. High or low, wide or straight at him, Jake manages to grab the ball. He takes them out of the real outside or leaps six feet into the air. He spears them with his gloved mitt, while his body is stretched out to its full limit, or he grabs them with the ungloved palm.

A dozen times at least since the season began, Daubert's uncanny skill in snaring the wild heavens has saved a game from the Brooklynites. Times without number he has grabbed atrocious flings and batted off runners going to first. Just how many rallies Daubert has checked, or how many runs he has checked off for the Dodgers, is something that no one can tell with any degree of accuracy. But they have been many in number.

Thin Steak—Sallee Quits.
Of Bill Sallee, of Chicago, who compares with G. Washington as to tenacity, insists that a thin beefsteak caused Slim Sallee to quit baseball.
"The Cubs and Cardinals foregathered in the same New York hotel," wrote Sallee, in the Chicago American. "That was a short time ago, while the Cubs were playing the Giants and the Cardinals were battling the Dodgers."
"The Cubs ordered from the hotel a carte bill of fare, where the steaks are juicy and thick," The Cardinals, living at the same hotel, were on the American plan, where the steaks are not large and juicy.

"Sallee ordered a steak one evening; an old Claude Hendrix, the Cub pitcher, said steak was a silver, Claude's was thick and juicy. Immediately Sallee handed up manager Miller Huggins.
"Am I as good a pitcher as those fellows from Chicago?" he demanded of Huggins.
"As good? Why, you're far better than any of them," answered Huggins. "They say they get thicker steaks." Sallee asked.
"Rules is rules," answered Huggins.

"Beck's" Amen Corner

BY "BECK."

PLENTY of good wrestlers are after matches in El Paso, since the announcement that the game is to be taken up here. The promoters are now waiting the arrival of Jim Brown, who is to be the active manager of the bouts, before announcing the date of the first match, which will likely be between Billy Hokut, of Miller, N. M., and Ad Santell, of San Francisco.

BILL PIERCE pitched a one-hit game for the Salt Lake Bees at Salt Lake City on Monday morning, Portland being the victims.

ONE reason major league baseball is drawing so well this year is that a stretch of 100 points will take in the first five clubs in the National league, while only 81 points separate the American league leaders and the team in sixth place. The fans like a tight race and the two major league races are tight enough to suit any one.

FREDDIE WELSH has signed up to meet Charlie White in a 20-round decision bout on Labor day. After all this howl about White being a real title contender, why this shout about everything being "nicely fixed" for the champion? Aside from White, the only contender for the lightweight crown worthy of serious consideration is Benny Leonard.

CONSIDERABLE interest is being shown in the Santa Rita-Commercial leagues games which are to take place here next month. On August 6, the Santa Ritas will tackle the Feldmans and will then go on to Roswell for a series there. Returning, the miners will take on the Puritys on August 15. If any one has a notion that the miners are in for an easy time, they had better forget it quick. Right now, the Feldmans and Puritys are the strongest teams in the Commercial league and are playing a brand of ball that compares with the professionals.

FELDMAN'S play Walt next Sunday morning at Rio Grande park. Manager McCannan may decide to start Maresch in this game as he wants to keep this young pitcher in condition. If Maresch goes on the mound, Graham will be used in the outfield because of his hitting. Either Cuaron or Soto will pitch for Walt.

PURITYS are picked to win from the Krackjacks in the first game on Sunday afternoon, unless manager "Curly" Smith makes some changes. He will have a new pitcher on the mound and that may change things a bit. "Shorty" Weiss is reported to be down for the mound work for the bakers.

SEVENTH infantry has defeated every team in the league in the past five weeks and manager Bertram says that they will start all over again when they meet the Everybody's in the second game, Sunday afternoon. There's no denying that the soldiers are mighty dangerous right now and this game looks like the treat of the day. Clarence Duncan will pitch for the soldiers and "Buster" Gillett for the clerks.

LOCAL baseball fans wanted to see Asa Porter work against Claude Graham last year, but they didn't get a chance. This chance may come when the Feldmans play Santa Rita here for Graham is now the star flogger of the photographers and the former Feldman flogger is now with Santa Rita.

WELSH and White are to scale in at 135 pounds five hours before entering the ring for their Labor day bout. This is a lightweight championship affair but it will be between welterweights because both men can take on five pounds between the time of weighing and entering the ring.
